Dedication

This work is dedicated to my wife Mechtilde (who was willing to read through and to correct the whole manuscript) and my two children Pauline and Axel, with whom I spent not so much time in the last four years and my rug book collector friend Ulrich Brandt, who left us much too early.

©2017 Stefan Schekira. All rights reserved. No part of the contents of this file may be reproduced, in whole or in part, in any form, except for quotations of small text passages (with identification of source).

Even though it is planned to send this bibliography without charge to everyone interested in, it is not allowed to distribute it in any form without the written permission of the author.

The several quotations from Seth Siegellaub: Bibliographica Textilia Historiae, 1997 (book) and his web-site egressfoundation.org and the adopted descriptions from various rug book dealers (Dennis and Wesley Marquand, Paul Kreiss and Jack Haldane) are not subject of this copyright.

Dear reader,

this is a non-scholarly and inevitably uncomplete bibliography of oriental carpet and oriental textile publications with hundreds of omissions and inaccuracies/faults.

Its main purpose is to serve as a guide for the oriental rug and textile (book) collector for orientation in the vast field of publications from the late 19th century to recent days (2016).

My Motivation

As a private collector of oriental rug and textile books ("everything in any language") I'm always keen on getting information on existing and new publications.

Unfortunately, all existing bibliographies – which cover the whole field – are (except for Siegelaub, 1997) at least 25 years old and more recent publications are unavoidably missing. In addition, they do not include a systematic listing of articles.

So I started to collect information, to copy articles and to make notes from the early 2000s, always having in mind to write an oriental rug bibliography, which I eventually started on January 1st 2013.

In my eyes an up-to-date bibliography is quite useful, especially in the internet era: On the one side, the number and variety of available books has largely increased in our times (and prices of most books have dropped). On the other side it is - except for the few remaining specialized book dealers - often quite difficult to get an appropriate impression of the contents/qualities of a book (the majority of internet book dealers bother with their 'satisfaction guarantee', but write nothing substantial about the book itself).

Hence, I decided to compile this oriental rug and textile bibliography and to publish it as a pdf-file (which appears as the most appropriate way of distribution to me). I hope that it will be useful for a large number of people interested in this area.

I wish you a lot of pleasure (and a large amount of new information) while reading (single chapters of) my compilation (and: excuse my faulty English),

Stefan Schekira

Introduction

Acknowledgements

Even though the bibliography is mainly based on my own collection of rug and textile publications, a considerable number of people and institutions has contributed to the contents/substance of this work.

The following persons helped to build up my library (and so to establish this bibliography) by donating me and/or selling me rug books for reasonable prices (in alphabetical order):

- Peter Bausback, Mannheim
- Matthias Bendau, Sipplingen
- Dr. Manfred Bieber, Waldbrunn
- Gebhart Blazek, Graz
- Alberto Boralevi, Florence
- Werner Brändl, Würzburg
- Ulrich Brandt, Neckargemünd
- Adrian Braunbehrens, Heidelberg
- Karlheinz Breuss, Hohenems, Austria
- Dr. Michael Buddeberg, Starnberg
- Corfu Museum of Asian Art
- Fam. Flicker, Grünwald
- Klaus Frantz, Munich
- Bertram Frauenknecht, Istanbul
- Wolfgang Gogolin, Munich
- Giovanni Grassi, Parma
- Heiner Haas, Berlin
- Sarah Haberkern, Stuttgart
- Peter Hoffmeister, Dörfles-Esbach
- Jan Holst, Munich
- Stefano Ionescu, Rome
- Christine Klose, Karlsruhe
- Reiner König, Weßling
- Detlef Maltzahn, Wiesbaden
- Horst Merkel, Wutöschingen
- Ulrich Merx, Starzach
- Said Aziz Mohammadi, Milan
- Ulrike Montigel, Stuttgart
- Wolfdietrich Müller, Völs am Schlern

- Hilmar Müssig, Sulzbach/Ts.
- Gropello Cairoli Nader, Italy
- Hans-Uwe Petersen-Nickelsen, Frankfurt
- Werner Pich, Munich
- Martin Posth, Berlin
- Helmut Reinisch, Graz, Austria
- Dr. Wolfgang Ritter, Wuppertal
- Selim, Munich
- Dr. Karl Steiner, Dorfen
- N. Vrouyr, Antwerp
- Gert Walter, Stattegg, Austria

In addition, it was possible to add more than one thousand of entries through the generosity of other private rug (book) collectors, mainly Ulrich Brandt and Michael Buddeberg, who liberally opened their libraries for me, as well as through the services of public Munich libraries including museum libraries (with their always very helpful staff):

Bayerische Staatsbibliothek incl. its interlibrary loan service and JSTOR-access,
Museum Fünf Kontinente (Herr Martin Gross),
Zentralinstitut für Kunstgeschichte
Bayerisches Nationalmuseum (Frau Sigrun Rieger)
Deutsches Museum
several faculty libraries of Munich's universities.

For several hundreds of publications, which I couldn't inspect personally, I was allowed to use the information and description from other rug/textile bibliographies and rug book dealers inventories:

Jack Haldane (who also supplied me with additional information on rug books), Paul Kreiss, Dennis and Wesley Marquand, Seth Siegelaub / Marja Bloem (director of the Stitching Egress Foundation / Siegelaub collection and archives).

Without the kind assistance from all these people/institutions the bibliography would be far less substantial. I'm deeply grateful for all the support, especially to Michael Buddeberg for motivating me continuously to write this bibliography. Thank you very much!

Sources

The bibliography is mainly based on my own private collection of oriental rug and textile publications (about 60% of this bibliography, 2/3 for the rug publications, 1/3 for the textile and Islamic art publications).

Private collections of other rug (book) collectors (see acknowledgements).

Bayerische Staatsbibliothek (Bavarian State Library), where I could borrow and inspect several hundreds of titles (web-site: bsb.muenchen.de), including several classical works like Henley, Bogolyubov, Martin, many textile books (old and new) and magazines (including many French ones).

Museum Fünf Kontinente (museum-fuenf-kontinente.de), with its vast collection of museum periodicals and folk art / textile books

Zentralinstitut für Kunstgeschichte (zikg.eu), with its huge collection of exhibition catalogues and magazines

Bayerisches Nationalmuseum (bayerisches-nationalmuseum.de)

Deutsches Museum (deutsches-museum.de)

Several faculty libraries of Munich's universities

The bibliography also includes about three hundred entries with descriptions directly drawn from specialized rug book dealers (in alphabetical order):

Jack Haldane (Abington Books): Annotations drawn from this book dealer start with an "AB.". His books are listed in abebooks.com.

Paul Kreiss (Rug Book Shop): rugbookshop.com. Material (mostly quite new publications in English) drawn from this book dealer start with an RBS: (or (RBS))

Dennis and Wesley Marquand: rugbooks.com (RB;) or (RB), with many descriptions of old and new US-dealer's and exhibition catalogues (in total about 140 entries).

A substantial amount of valuable and detailed information is quoted from the excellent bibliography of Seth Siegelau: Bibliographica Textilia Historiae, 1997, continued in the internet as database (egressfoundation.net), with many early and important textile books, not available elsewhere (in total about 120 entries). Descriptions from this source start with "CSROT:".

Usually I quoted the complete item description from these sources (without condition and prices of course). Additional information from other sources is clearly separated.

I am grateful for their kind generosity.

Last but not least I used the existing oriental rug and textile bibliographies of K. A. C. Creswell (with 2 supplements), Fusto, Luigi and Marc-Edouard Enay/Siawosch Azadi, as sources for inspiration (acquisition and loan of publications). Several entries from these bibliographies, which I couldn't verify, are listed here with the basic book information: Author(s), Title, Place, Publisher, Year; Number of pages (mostly O'Bannon entries).

Other Sources:

Worldcat.org: "WorldCat is the world's largest network of library content and services. WorldCat libraries are dedicated to providing access to their resources on the Web, where most people start their search for information" (web-site).

Worldcat.org is an excellent source of information about all kinds of books, catalogues and articles. I used it especially to find other publications from specific authors, editions in other languages, reviews (!) and all kind of information available for (free) download (mainly JSTOR).

For several titles in this bibliography, worldcat.org was my only reliable source of information. If an entry includes information or is mainly/completely based on the worldcat-entry it is marked with a [WC] or WC: to make this "quotation" apparent.

JSTOR.org: Hundreds of entries in this bibliography are (often free of charge) accessible through JSTOR.

For general information on JSTOR see Wikipedia, for your personal access to JSTOR contact your local or better supra-regional library or one of the JSTOR-institutions listed on JSTOR.org.

Due to the quite easy accessibility, articles available through JSTOR are privileged compared to other articles in non-specialized magazines (as I assume that few people will buy or even borrow publications with single articles on oriental rugs/textiles).

Contents of this bibliography

Scope of this bibliography (what is included?)

What is/should be included:

- books/brochures/catalogues on/with a substantial number of Oriental/Islamic rugs and textiles including related regions/types and subjects from late antiquity to present times in languages with Latin script

Definition for 'oriental' in this bibliography: all Islamic regions in North Africa, the Near and Middle East, Central Asia + India/the Balkans/Eastern Europe + China (rugs) + rest of Europe (folk rugs) as listed in the table of contents.

- (longer) articles from (well-known) specialized publications like Carpet Collector, CIETA, Ghereh, Hali, Heimtex, Oriental Rug Review, Die Weltkunst and others
- single-owner auction catalogues on oriental rugs and textiles
- articles from magazines easily accessible through 'JSTOR' (see Wikipedia)
- other (scholarly) articles, which seem to be important enough for me to be included.

What is (usually) not included:

a) due to its contents

- textiles from pre-history and antiquity (like the Roman or Pharaonic period)
- publications on Chinese/(East Turkestan/Tibetan) and Southeast Asian textiles.
- publications on Islamic/Indian/European folk art without a substantial number of rugs or textiles
- books with ethnographical focus and travel accounts
- books on antiques with single chapters on oriental rugs/textiles
- mixed single-owner auction catalogues with a small number (plates) of oriental rugs/textiles
- publications on liturgical textiles (except for Coptic/Byzantine/early Islamic textiles recomposed to liturgical textiles)
- How-to books ('producing your own rugs and textiles')
- publications with focus on material (like wool) and utilities (like looms)
- publications on lace
- publications on non-oriental (according to the definition in this bibliography) weavings
- non-single-owner auction catalogues on oriental rugs and textiles except for Edelman, Lefevre, Mangisch (who all are out of business now)

b) due to its 'format'

- publications written in non-Latin script (like Russian, Arabic, Farsi, Armenian etc.) without a summary in a Western language (due to language barriers these publications are not accessible to me).
- (small) brochures on modern rugs
- articles in magazines, which I was unable to access like 'Embroidery', '~~Bulletin of the Needle and Bobbin Club~~' see: [V.2. Magazines accessible through JSTOR and other web-sources], 'Good Furniture Magazine', 'Antiques Review', 'House and Garden', 'The Art

News' and many more. Perhaps they will be added in a later version of this bibliography - publications (mainly articles) written in other languages as English, German, French, Italian and Spanish, which are difficult to access for most readers (even though many of them are available in the Bavarian State Library).

- very general articles on rugs and textiles (but I was quite generous with older articles).
- very short (one or two pages) articles.
- very old publications (mainly on textiles) until mid/late-19th century (many of these books are listed in the Siegelauß bibliography)
- modern reprints (in other format, and often without color plates)

Categorization

Any categorization might be awkward and inaccurate, as there are many titles not fitting appropriately into one chosen category. On the other hand, I don't expect, that anybody will read through the whole bibliography, but to concentrate on his personal focus of interest. Thus, all publications are categorized according to the following scheme:

0. Magazines / Periodicals: Some magazines, completely devoted to oriental rugs and textiles or at least frequent treatment of these topics.

I. Rugs: includes carpets, rugs, flatweaves, small (nomadic) items like bands, horse covers, bags, salt bags, animal decoration, reed screens etc. and felt rugs.

If the number of plates/described pieces on rugs (almost) equals the number on textiles the publication is listed under "I. Rugs". Most titles which deal with several/all aspects of folk art are listed under II. Textiles (which is often a dominant part of the book).

I.1. Rugs General: All publications without a limitation/strong focus on (a) particular rug region(s); this means, that also titles which imply a concentration on a particular rug region (often Persian rugs), but include pieces from several regions, may be listed here.

Also publications, which deal with all (former) USSR-regions (due to their scope most of these titles are listed under II. Textiles 1. General).

I.2. Rugs Anatolia: includes Thracian and Kurdish pieces with strong Anatolian focus. Also classical Mamluk and related (Damascus, Syria etc.) and the so-called Fostat/pre-Islamic rugs are listed here. DOBAG (or related) publications. The term 'Anatolia' (instead of Turkey) is used to emphasize the regional (and not the political) character of origin.

I.3. Rugs Caucasus: rugs and textiles from this region, regardless of the involvement of Islamic people (like the Armenian).

I.4. Rugs Central Asia: Focus lies on the weavings of the Turkoman, but also on the publications of neighbouring regions: Tajik, Uzbek, Kyrgyz and Baluchi are listed here. Most publications on Turkomans often include pieces from the neighbouring tribes, which is usually mentioned in the description. Publications on the Pazyryk rug (with its still speculative origin) as well as Pazyryk excavations have their own (sub-)category. All issues of 'Turkmenforschung' (even they don't include articles on Central Asian rugs or textiles)

To simplify searching for Turkoman and Baluchi weavings, I tried to use only these two expressions in the item description.

I.5. Rugs China / East Turkestan / Tibet: very often publications of these areas include pieces from all three regions; so the number/share for each is mentioned in the description. Susanschild/Susansherd (see: Karabacek)

As there is no chapter on Chinese/East Turkestan/Tibetan textiles, some corresponding titles are listed here.

I.6. Rugs Eastern Europe / Balkans: mainly the Balkans with Greece, Romania, (former) Yugoslavia, but also Russia/Belarus, Ukraine with few titles on rugs from Poland/Baltic/Czech/Hungary/Slovakia etc. Also some publications about other (exotic) European rug regions (like Italy).

I.7. Rugs India/Pakistan: includes Pakistan, Bangladesh, (few) Nepal/Bhutan but not South East Asia, which is not within the scope of this bibliography. Trinitarias carpet, Indo-Persian and Indo-Isfahan carpets. The involvement of Muslim people in the production of trade of rugs/flatweaves is no criterion in this bibliography.

I.8. Rugs North Africa / Other Middle East: Mostly (post-classical) North African (without Mamluk) and Near Eastern rugs and flatweaves from Syria, Palestina, Iraq etc. Due to its colonial history, many publications on North African rugs (and textiles) are in French.

I.9. Rugs Persia: Most publications on Kurdish rugs are listed here, Salting carpets (16th + 17th century Persian Prayer rugs, often attributed to 18th/19th century Anatolia in many earlier publications), Shahsavani weavings, Tabriz region. The term 'Persia' (instead of Iran) is used to emphasize the regional (and not the political) character of origin.

I.10. Rugs Spain (Islamic): Hispano-Moresque carpets and later pieces in the Islamic design tradition. Portuguese Arraiolos rugs.

I.12. Special topics

I.12.1. Pazyryk: rugs, textiles/felts and excavations

I.12.2. Folk carpets and flatweaves from the rest of Europe (without modern weavings): focus is on Scandinavian pieces

I.12.3. European imitations of Oriental Rugs: includes a short compilation of titles of (mainly) European (machine-made) carpets, often with Oriental design. Most of them are listed in the bibliographies of Enay/Azadi, O'Bannon, Siegelau and/or Creswell, but quite often it is not apparent, that these books don't deal with oriental rugs. Therefore, they are listed here for reasons of completeness.

II. Textiles (+ Folk Art):

All kind of oriental textiles not included in the rug section, like embroideries, silks, tents, felts etc.

In general, the chapters on textiles cover a quite smaller percentage of existing literature than the chapters on rugs. This is especially true for articles.

The textile section also includes the general art and craft books (mainly folk art) for every region. Many publications on Russian, Caucasian, Central Asian, Indian and North African folk art include substantial chapters on textiles and rugs/flatweaves.

The regional limitations described for 'I. Rugs' are also valid for the textile section.

II.1. Textiles General

II.2. Textiles Anatolia

II.3. Textiles Caucasus

II.4. Textiles Central Asia

(II.5. Textiles China / East Turkestan / Tibet: not within the scope of this bibliography)

II.6. Textiles Eastern Europe / Balkans: focus is on folk embroideries.

II.7. Textiles India/Pakistan:

II.8. Textiles North Africa / Other Middle East: focus is on folk embroideries of the 19th and (early) 20th century

II.9. Textiles Persia: textiles from the Safavid era and later, earlier textiles are described in II.11. Early to Medieval Textiles.

II.10. Textiles Spain (Islamic): mainly including the textiles of Islamic Spain (-1492)

II.11. Early to Medieval Textiles (Coptic/Byzantine/Islamic): early textiles from 'oriental' regions including Mamluk and some Central Asian.

III. Islamic Arts: works with a substantial number of rug and textile material (usually the number/share of rugs+textiles is stated). The majority of publications in this category has a regional focus (mostly Anatolia or Persia).

IV. Related topics

1. Bibliographies: A compilation of bibliographies including a substantial number of oriental rug and textile books with several rug book dealer catalogues.

2. Dyeing: many publications with close relation to dyeing for oriental rug/textile production.

3. Production (Social and Economic Aspects)/Trade/Collecting/Research

4. Maintenance/Care/Restoration

5. Techniques/(How-to Books): focus is on publications on rug weaving techniques with only very few how-to books.

Note: All publications in this bibliography are – or better should be – listed only once. As not all fit in only one category, there is the following system of multiple categorization: If a book belongs to more than one category, the item description includes additional categories in the following format: [Textiles Anatolia] or [Rugs Persia] according to the headlines of the chapters.

Example: Alami, Parviz. Die Perlen unter den Orientteppichen, 1986 is listed – according to its general title under I.1. Rugs General. But as almost 80% of shown rugs are Persian, it has [Rugs Persia] as second category.

Thus, if you are interested mainly in Persian rugs, you might check the correspondent chapter and then enter [Rugs Persia] as search function for additional titles.

Similarities to the O'Bannon-Bibliography

Many readers will easily recognize the similarity of this bibliography with the one of George O'Bannon in structure and form/format of single entries.

Structure: If you decide for any categorization of oriental carpets, it will usually come very close to the categories, G. O'Bannon has chosen: General, Anatolia, Caucasus, Central Asia, Persia, China/Tibet/East Turkestan, North Africa, India (East Europe) as many rug books are organized in this way.

Hence, I had to make only a few decisions (which sometimes differ from the structure in O'Bannon):

- Mamluk/Fostat to Anatolia
- Baluchi to Central Asia
- own chapter for (Hispano-Moresque) Spanish rugs
- own small chapters for Pazyryk, European folk rugs, European imitations
- mixed books (mostly folk art with rugs and textiles) to textiles
- an own large chapter for Coptic/Byzantine/Early Islamic textiles (until the Middle Ages)
- and a sub-categorization for related subjects into care, dyeing, economic aspects, bibliographies.

Form of single entries

In addition to the usual formal characteristics of bibliographies (editor, languages, binding, format, number of color and black/white-plates) O'Bannon listed four more features: line drawings; map(s); quality of color plates; technical analysis. As I judge all these as very useful in rug books (especially the quality of color plates and technical analysis), they are also included in this bibliography and I added two more, which seem to be worth being listed: figures/photos/details and length of description.

I tried to review all comments/ratings of O'Bannon and altered them, whenever it appeared justified (like quality of color plates). All facts of O'Bannon, which I couldn't verify (personally or in one of the listed sources) are not included (marked with a "uk" for "unknown").

Structure and Contents of Entries

Order of entries: The order of entries follows this system:

Category/Author(s)/Year/Title

On the following pages you find the explanations on the contents of the individual entries.

Number

The entry number is built up according to the following system:
category - (consecutive) number – language – edition.

So TA-182A-1 means:

Category: Textiles Anatolia - Number 182, letter A: significates the first edition in the not original language – 2nd edition.

The first edition in any language usually has no additional letter or number (like: TA-182). This system may sound quite complicated at first sight, but seems appropriate to illustrate the relations between books (all later editions of one book in any language have the same main number) and –above all – allows to add additional entries in later editions without complication.

OPE (Other printings or editions): If a later edition is a pure reprint or has only small changes, it is listed under OPE (without own number).

Author(s)

Author(s) are listed according to the order on the cover, not alphabetically. If there is no author stated, the editor(s) or the editing institution is given. Also publications with several authors are sorted according the first author.

I tried to spell as many authors and titles in respect of the original language (using the stresses and with – for the English reader - often unfamiliar letters). This is especially true for Turkish and Scandinavian authors. In many cases and if there is no corresponding English title, I have repeated the autor(s)/title with letters limited to the English alphabet at the end of the entry in [brackets] to facilitate searching for particular titles.

In the appendix, there is a list of several authors, whose names are spelled in different ways (like: Tagiyeva, Roiya).

In several cases (mostly dealer catalogues) the name(s) of the gallery or gallery owner appears as author instead of the actual author(s), for example: Tabibnia, Moshe (gallery) instead of Pavignano, Claudia (author) or Mercante d'Oriente instead of Sette, Alberto.

This procedure is based on what I judge as the usual way of listing (in bibliographies or in the internet).

Auction catalogues are listed under the (former) single owner and not the auction house. The (very) few entries without author and editor/institution are listed under "Anonymous".

Special cases:

- If only the initials of an author are given (and the complete name is unknown to me), the initial is treated as a full name (so: E., B. may be the first entry in a category starting with an 'E').

- Abbreviations (like: OCM) are sorted according to their (abbreviated) spelling

- despite the sometimes very different spelling of single authors, I've grouped some entries with (slightly) different spellings together, like: later publications of 'Tsareva, Elena' are placed behind 'Tzareva, Elena'; in most cases (especially if the initials are different) I've sorted the publications according their spelling (like 'Yefimova' and 'Jefimowa'); for these cases see the appendix.

- the Arabic article 'al-' (or 'el-') is written, but ignored for sorting like al-Sabah under 'S'.

Title

Usually the full title of the entry including the subheading is listed. Very often the subheading gives a good/better impression about the contents of the book. If it seems useful, a short explanation in brackets gives an impression about the contents (this is true for many Hali-headlines).

In (older) auction catalogues the title on the cover very often differs from the title on the first pages. Usually the second title is listed within the description (for identification purposes and the search-option).

I tried to translate as many titles into English as possible, but couldn't manage it in all cases.

Place: Publisher/Magazine

Articles are listed with publication dates of the magazine/book and details like volume, issue (month, year). Wherever it was possible I specified magazine articles in the following way: magazine volume/number like 12/1-2 (volume 12/issue 1-2) or number/year (like 3/1979) and transformed Roman into Arabic numbers. If only one number is given, it usually refers to the volume (except of Hali, Ghreh, Ciba Review).

Year

Usually the year of the first edition (in this language) is used, 'nd' means 'not dated', but quite often the publication date is known (for example from references to an exhibition in other media). Sometimes the publication date is pure guesswork (like 1920s, or ca. 1930) according to the appearance of the book. Nevertheless, this date might be useful to differentiate a modern book from another one printed in the early 1900s.

Languages

Any language used in the book/publication is listed, even if there is no full translation (in this case additional information is given like: summary and captions to plates) or only a part of the book is written in this language (mostly in anthologies). Usually it is stated, if there is only a reduced translation/summary of the text. In several cases, it was difficult/impossible for me to identify the languages (Azeri? Turkmen? Kazakh?). Please accept my apologies for all faults included.

Pages

All pages between the first and the last printed page are counted (also the rear empty pages of color plates), so there might be considerable differences between the last stated page number in the book and the number of pages in this bibliography. Tissue papers, advertisements (at the end of the book) and 'conditions of sale' pages of auction houses etc. are not counted. I'm not totally satisfied with this approach any longer, so: if I started with the bibliography now, I would list like: XII, (2), 128 pp. + 4 color plates (8 pages).

Binding

Hard or soft without more detailed specification. It is stated (mostly in the description) if the book is boxed or slipcased. If there are different bindings, it is stated in the OPE-section.

Format

Whenever available, the format of the hardcover edition is given (height of spine x width). If the publication consists of several parts (like larger collection of plates and smaller accompanying booklet) the format of all parts is given. For several magazine articles (mainly articles downloaded through JSTOR), no format could be given. Format may vary from earlier to later volumes, what could not be respected in all cases.

Color plates / Black/white plates

Number of photos/paintings on (oriental) rugs or textiles. Plates are counted only if they show complete or (mainly in older books) substantial parts of the carpet or textile. Especially textile books often show only a part of the piece. Uncounted are line drawings of rugs/textiles and (small) details/design elements. Of course, it is often difficult to judge, if a picture has to be counted as a plate or not.

In case I don't know the number of plates showing (oriental) rugs or textiles, I have usually added: (in total) for the total number of plates, or sometimes: x color (y color in total) to make clear, how many oriental rugs/textiles are shown + the total number of plates.

Rugs in paintings are often counted separately.

Usually it is stated (in the description), if the color plates are repeated in black/white plates and if there is a higher number of plates as number of catalog entries (28 catalog entries with description + several additional plates in the introduction).

For many articles, it is stated if there are additional details (of rugs or textiles), figures (paintings, miniatures, art objects in other media), photos (on landscape, rug production or rug producing people) etc.

For many books, this information is listed in the book description.

Line drawings

Instructive line drawings categorized: no; few; line drawings, many, numerous. In case I don't know, if there are any line drawings, you find a 'uk'. Pure (small) decorative line drawings to embellish the book are not listed.

Maps

From my perspective, maps are at least an indicator of the thoroughness and quality of the book. Usually you find geographical maps listing many places/cities mentioned in the text (and it is often difficult to manage it without a map due to differing spelling). Often it is stated, if there are special maps like ethnographic maps.

Quality of color plates

Categories: Poor, Fair, Good; Excellent or intermediate categories (as in O'Bannon).

Fair-Good means that the quality lies between Fair and Good or that some plates are Fair, others are Good. The publication date is taken into account (expectations to plates in new books are higher).

The quality of black/white plates is mentioned, only if they are quite poor (lacking contrast or so).

Description of rugs/textiles

An important issue of any rug book is the description/analysis of the shown rugs, especially for the beginner, even if it is controversial. Nevertheless, a considerable number of publications (often dealer catalogues) has no item description.

Categories:

- no desc.: nothing except for name, format, age (or even less).
- (very) short desc.: up to a few lines of description, very often the amount of information you find in plate captions. This is the most frequent category.
- desc.: individual discussion/analysis of the piece often with appreciation of its artistic merit and/or related examples

- detailed desc.: especially detailed individual discussion/analysis of items, often on a whole page or more.

TechAnal (Technical Analysis)

Information on colours/dyes, used techniques, analysis of techniques (wool ply, knot density etc.), general technical appearance, condition/restoration etc.

Categories:

NoTech: no technical information given

MinTech: some information (like knot density, materials of warp, weft, fibers), but no complete analysis

TechAnal: 'complete' technical analysis of the rug/textile

Detailed Tech: especially detailed information like chemical analysis of dyes.

References to other bibliographies

References for Enay/Azadi [EA xxx], O'Bannon [OB xxx], Siegelau [CSROT xxx], Creswell [CRES xxx] [CRES I xxx] [CRES II xxx], Fusto [Fu xxx] with corresponding numbers. As the entries in these bibliographies often refer to particular (later) editions, much references are to be found in the OPE-section.

Annotation (objective and subjective facts)

!All subjective statements express my personal point of view. This is especially valid for the age and quality of rugs and the rating of the books in general (like: 'standard work'). I'm definitely not a great rug expert, so – for example - comments concerning the age of carpets reflect the 'usual' classification in the majority of rug books. This means: a statement like 'rugs are dated too early' (only) implies, that this author dates his rugs earlier than (most) other rug book authors do (he might be right and most other writers may be wrong). I think this treatment offers the largest benefit for most readers (to leave out the rating of age in the bibliography is no alternative, as for many readers, this issue is extremely important)!

Most books/articles are annotated including objective and (often) subjective statements. The amount of comment usually corresponds with the importance of the book.

If not apparent from the title of the book or the category you usually find (some/several of) the following information:

- type of publication: dealer's exhibition and sales catalog, (museum) exhibition catalog, general rug book

- regions: the 4 classic rug regions (Anatolia, Caucasus, West Turkestan, Persia) and China/Tibet/East Turkestan, India, North Africa, Balkans. In many cases, it is stated if the Persian section also includes tribal rugs and if Baluchi rugs (Central Asia) are shown.

Most general rug books deal with the classic rug regions (focus is often on Persia) + China/Tibet/East Turkestan and only a few examples from the other areas. It is often stated, if one or more regions are over-represented (compared to the usual mix). For some series of books, the number of pieces per region are given (like Bausback, Herrmann).

- type of rugs: pile rugs, flatweaves, small pieces like bands, bags, animal decoration etc. (most books show mainly pile rugs and a few other types)

- age: classical (until 1800), antique (until 1900), old (until 1950) or younger/new. The term 'contemporary' is always used in respect of the publication date.

- quality of pieces: often it is stated, if the quality of pieces is (according to my opinion) above average: interesting selection – high level etc., but also negative statements occur: mediocre, poor etc. My personal tastes may have affected some statements/formulations.

- source of pieces: dealers' inventories – private or public collections (which countries ...). This is an important feature, as classical museum pieces are often repeated in many publications, whereas dealer and collector catalogues often show many pieces not published elsewhere

- table/listing of contents: usually for the more important publications and anthologies

- relations between different editions / different languages: a very important feature of this bibliography is, how to differ particular editions of the same book from each other: In some cases, later editions differ considerably (like Gregorian), in other cases different titles are actually exactly the same book (like: Gans-Ruedin: The Splendor of Persian Carpets and Iranian Carpets: Art, Craft, and History). Is there any content drawn from another rug book/publication?

Wherever it was known to me, I made a statement (text and/or plates) concerning these differences. The translator of a book into a foreign language is usually not given (unless he revised the contents and/or added some information)

- details: are not counted as color plates, but are mentioned here, especially if there are full-page details

- essays: are usually listed with their number of pages.

- number of pages on carpet/textiles: for many 'mixed' publications, the number of pages devoted to carpets and textiles is given

- importance: statements like standard work or important publication
- collation: if a publication consists of various parts, all parts are described (to make it possible to check, if an item is complete), like soft folder + text booklet + separate map + errata sheet
- bibliography: is mentioned for publications with a substantial/annotated bibliography ('above average'), some with number of pages/entries.
- additions: like errata sheets or (loose) price lists
- number of copies: to give an impression, of how rare a book actually is (note: Russian publications often have large number of copies, but are nevertheless difficult to obtain in the West); the number of exhibition catalogues lies quite often between 500 and 1,000.
- OPE (Other printings and editions): Most later editions are listed here, some with different titles and/or other editors.
- alternative categories: if a publication has a focus in addition to the chosen category, it is listed here, like [Rugs Central Asia], according to the table of contents; the only additional category is [Carpets in Paintings].
- [Anthology] means, that a publication is a compilation of articles (mostly from different authors) or that the entry is a single article drawn from an anthology.
- annotations from other sources (Jack Haldane, Paul Kreiss, Dennis and Wesley Marquand, Seth Siegelau) all start with their particular abbreviation (like CSROT:) and the full description of this publication (of course without the individual condition and price of the book)
- quotations (text between " ") is – unlike otherwise stated – always drawn from the discussed publication itself.

Reviews

An important feature of this bibliography are reviews, also including auction/exhibition previews and reviews. Main sources of reviews are easily available publications like Hali, ORR, Ghreh, preetoriusstiftung.de (in German) and publications available through JSTOR. I always tried to include at least one review in English, but this was not always possible. If there is no language of the review mentioned, it is in English. Some (longer) reviews have their own entry. (Online) review offerings with costs are not included. Additional reviews are highly welcome.

Download

An astonishing high number of rug and textile publications are available for (free) download. In these cases, the full link is listed (some links offer free view only). Additional links are highly welcome, of course. I hope it is unnecessary to write, that I'm not responsible for any link not working or any other problem connected with these links.

Index/Cross Reference(s)

According to the quite comfortable Search-Options (and the standardisation of key-words) I resigned to add an index and/or additional cross references.

Personal Comments

Strengths / Weaknesses of this bibliography

Due to my focus of interest, the chapters on oriental rugs are described and rated on a higher base of knowledge/experience than the chapters on textiles and Islamic art. Consequently, I dared to judge the quality of carpets in many publications (of course always a subjective and tricky undertaking), as many readers will expect exactly this kind of information. Vice versa, the quality of textiles is rated only in a few publications. In total, the bibliography covers a higher percentage of carpet than of textile publications and a higher percentage of existing German publications compared to foreign ones.

As a rug book collector, I have included much "non-scientific" information, which may be especially interesting for rug / other rug book collectors: (formal) distinctions between different editions, number of replaced color and black/white plates in later editions, pictorial material or text (passages) drawn from other publications etc.

With some more months of input/work, the quality of the bibliography would have increased: more entries in better quality, less faults, more references/related articles etc. But after more than 4 years of quite continuous work (besides my job), I decided to publish this first version as an acceptable and substantial basis for later improvement.

Working with this bibliography

In addition to the categorisation of topics according to the table of contents – which is hopefully suitable for most readers – I tried to support "Searching" within this bibliography by standardising information like writing the names of authors (always in the following order: second name, first names) or magazines (magazine volume/issue), wherever this was possible: So you can evaluate the (main) contents of a specific issue of Oriental Rug Review by entering "Oriental Rug Review 12/5" (reviews by "ORR 12/5"). The entries for "Hali", "Ghereh" and "Heimtex" are standardised in the same way. Also many proper names are standardised like name of places and tribes (see appendix). NOTE: For a comfortable use of 'Search'-functions you may use an Adobe Acrobat Reader® or similar programs (usually available for free download).

Perspectives for this bibliography

Hopefully there will be a lot of reactions (criticism, additions, corrections, praises etc.) to this compilation. Every kind of feedback (or contact with other rug book collectors) is highly appreciated. It is planned to publish a new edition 2.0, when there will be enough new material. Hence, your feedback will be a valuable contribution for the next edition(s).

Preface to the second edition 2.0 (September 2018)

Almost one and a half years after the publication of the first edition of this bibliography in March 2017 there is enough material to publish the second edition.

Thank you very much for the (almost very) positive reception of the first edition including all your corrections, additions and proposals (and special thanks to Gerhard Haselhorst, Frankfurt, who is the only one (so far), who provided me with complete new entries for the bibliography; his book description always start with "GH:"). Please see also the chapter: 'V.6 People who have contributed to the development of this bibliography', at the end of this publication.

You will find the following additions and corrections in this edition:

- more than 400 new entries (of newly published material or publications still unknown to me in the first edition (all written in blue colour), adding the total amount of entries to more than 8,000.
- ca. 200-300 full entries of books/catalogues/articles, which were already listed in the first edition, but still unknown to me
- countless additions, corrections (also of misspellings), added reviews, other editions etc.

For those of you, who have printed out (parts of) the bibliography there is a separate file including all new entries (but not the expanded and/or corrected entries).

Preface to the third edition 3.0 (March 2021)

Now, after one and a half year after version 2.2 (September 2019) it is again 'time' for the next edition (3.0).

You will find:

- more than 500 new entries (260 for carpets, 250 for textiles/Islamic art), the majority described in detail
- hundreds of books now described in detail (and unknown to me in former editions)
- hundreds of corrections and additions (like information on downloads or reviews)
- articles of Carpet Collector are included until its last issue (4/2018), articles of Hali until issue 206 (Winter 2020).

You can identify new entries in the second part of the headline, like: I.1. Rugs General [G-1 – G-1614 + G-1615-G-1702]: G-1615 to G-1702 are new entries.

Due to Corona restrictions it was not possible to check several books available in the large Munich libraries (many of these books will be described in edition 3.1).

Thank you very much (again) for my rug (book) collector friends Stefano Ionescu and Gerhard Haselhorst, who supplied me with much additional material for this bibliography. Some entries are completely from Mr. Haselhorst (description of books starts with GH:).

There is a again a separate file, including the new entries only.

0. Magazines / Periodicals [M1 – M8]

M-1 Bulletin de Liaison du Centre International d'Étude des Textiles Anciens (CIETA). [M]

Lyon: Bulletin de Liaison du Centre International d'Étude des Textiles Anciens (CIETA), 1955 until present; French/English; ca. 100 pp.; soft, 27x21cm; few color (in later editions); many black/white; numerous line drawings/tables; Fair; desc.; often with TechAnal [CSROT t3271].

CSROT: "A scholarly review, edited & published by the Centre International d'Étude des Textiles Anciens (CIETA), Lyon, published from issue no 1, 1955 - to date, as a semi-annual, with an occasional annual double issue.

The association was founded in 1954 & is especially centered on the early history of refined decorative silk textiles, & its principal project has been the preparation of a multi-lingual standard technical vocabulary for the analysis & study of historic textiles; for the English edition see: BURNHAM, Dorothy K. Warp and Weft. A textile terminology. Toronto 1980 [CSROT 496]."

This bibliography includes about 80 articles (1960-2006) from this magazine. web-site: www.cieta.fr with free download of all issues (except no. 13) from 1955-1986 (cieta.fr/bulletin).

M-3 Ghereh. Rivista di Tappeti e Tessili / International Carpet & Textile Review. [M]

Turin: CATO Editore, 1993 until present; Italian/English; ca. 90-100 pp., soft, 27x19cm; many color; line drawings; Fair-Good; desc.; few with TechAnal.

[CSROT 5164]

Magazine, published up to six times a year on oriental rugs and textiles with contributions from Italian/European/International experts and dealers. 'Ghereh' is Persian and means 'knot'. Editor is Taher Sabahi. Usual contents are two or three main articles + News, Agenda, Exhibitions, Auctions, Books & Catalogues.

The first 6 issues were published in Italian only, issues 6, 7 and 8 have an English supplement (27, 16 and 18 pages), from issue 9 onward, there are English and Italian editions. Number 28 to 30 are also published in German. Publication has become quite infrequent since 2008. Issue 50 was published in 2012 as CD.

The magazine started in February 1993 with issue Volume 1, No. 0. (Last issue known to me: No. 51, 2013)

Web-site: ghereh.org.

M-4 Hali Publications. Hali Magazine. [M]

London: Hali Publications, Ltd., 1978-present; English/German (in early issues); ca. 140-200 pp., soft, 30x21.5cm or 30x22.5cm; numerous color, numerous black/white; numerous figures; line drawings; maps; Fair-Good; short desc. to desc.; some with TechAnal [OB 502]; several [CSROT] numbers.

The most important international periodical on oriental and non-oriental rugs, textiles and Islamic art covering exhibitions, events (auctions, symposia, fairs, conferences etc.), books and numerous articles on all aspects of (oriental) textile art. The scope of the magazine has broadened over the time towards textiles and Islamic art.

Publication: quarterly until Vol. 9 (No. 36), bi-monthly from Vol. 10 and again quarterly from No. 151 (Spring 2007).

Vol. 1 to 4 are in German and English (English articles often have (short) German summaries and vice versa), for Vol 5 and 6 there are separate German and English editions, from No. 25 (Vol. 7) up to No. 78 (Dec. 1994) there is a separate German supplement with translation of the main articles (16 to 32 pp. each).

From No. 79 onwards, there is only an English edition.

web-site: hali.com.

French supplement with 16 to 20 pages from Vol. 4 No. 1 onwards (?) with mostly (abbreviated) translations, but also some short additional articles for the French reader, mainly on exhibitions in France (illustrations are black/white only).

There was also an Italian supplement, also with additional articles concerning the Italian rug scene.

There is a special miniature edition (format: 10.5x7.5cm) with 64 pages, including several parts of articles (some from Hali 5/1, 1982 and other issues).

M-5 Heimtex: Fachzeitschrift für die gesamte Innenraumausstattung (Home Textiles). [M]

A (usually) bi-annual magazine on general rug information (regions, dyeing, tribes, particular kinds of rug products, services, activities of the Vienna company and its branches etc.) together with travel reports from this Austrian rug company to promote rug knowledge and to announce exhibitions among its customers. Focus is on old and antique carpets with some articles on new carpets. The most interesting articles are the previews on rug exhibitions usually with several color plates on old/antique carpets.

Issues: 1/81 (4 pages) to 8/84 (8 or 16 pages) bi-annually (Issue 1 is quite rare, so Besim produced black/white xerox copies)

9/1985 to 25/1990 (mostly 16 pages), 3 to 4 issues per year
New title: Knotenpunkt der Teppichwelt ("Center of the Rug World"):

Issue 26/1990 to 31/1992 (16 to 32 pages) 2 issues per year
New format (47x31.5cm, tabloid):

Issues 32 (1993) to 36 (1994) with 8 or 16 pages.

Again format 29.5x21cm:
1995-1998: irregular publication? with 4 to 16 pages

1999-2008: 2 to 3 issues per year (mostly with 16 pages) with a higher percentage of new carpets

2009-1/2012: 2 issues per year.

In addition Adil Besim published additional 'Invitations' to his rug exhibitions in the same layout with less pages.

One of the very rare publications on rugs/kilims in the former German Democratic Republic. Flatweaves are mostly 19th century - with some classical Persian kilims - from Anatolia (kilims), the Caucasus and Persia (kilims and bags). Pieces are mainly drawn from the Islamic Museum/Berlin with some pieces from Dresden, Chemnitz (Karl-Marx-Stadt), Wernigerode and private collections. For 48 of the 65 described flatweaves a color plate is shown (9 additional black/white in the introduction). Some figures.

A dealer's catalog on (19th to early 20th century) oriental tribal weavings (kilims, covers, sofreh, bags, horse covers etc.) from Anatolia, Persia and Central Asia focusing on symbolism in these weavings: the author argues that more or less complex geometrical design elements like crosses, hooked diamonds, hexagons are in fact representations of the Mother Goddess, her reproductive organs or on childbirth. The exhaustive section on symbols shown the design development from more naturalistic representations in antiquity to more geometrical designs in oriental rugs and flatweaves. For every piece in the colour section, the type of (archaic) design in the symbol section is indicated.

A massive dealer's exhibition and sales catalog of 108 color plates +108 loose plates with text in a blue cloth box. Splendid examples of oriental carpets and textiles with many early and interesting pieces:

- Persia (mainly tribal pieces): 36 rugs (with some bags) + 2 flatweaves + 1 textile
- Caucasus: 18 rugs + 6 flatweaves + 6 textiles (mainly Kaitags)
- Anatolia (many classical carpets): 16 rugs + 3 kilims + 2 embroideries
- China: 11 carpets + 1 textile
- West Turkestan: 11 rugs including bags etc.
- Baluchi: 5 rugs/bags
- East Turkestan: 5 rugs
- India: 2 carpets + 1 textile
- Uzbek: 1 flatweave.

For many carpets their 'geometrical' structure is analysed: The author states the conscious application of the so-called sacred geometry (Pythagorean triangles) in the production of antique carpets. Separate transparent schemata of Pythagorean geometry for the carpets. 100 boxes produced.

OPE: Introduction also published in Ghereh 11 + Ghereh 12 + Ghereh 13 (March + June + September 1997): Between Heaven and Earth. Observations on Geometry in Carpet and Textile Art, pp. 7-23, 8 c., pp. 21-35, 15 c., pp. 37-49, 8 c., figures/photos/line drawings.

There is a preview brochure (30.5x22.5cm, 8 pages, 4 color plates) for this exhibition 11 Nov – 17 Dec 1994 which implies that the format and layout of this book was originally planned like Asiatische Teppich- und Textilkunst Band 1 to 4.

Lefevre auction catalogues on oriental rugs (and textiles): Lefevre was a leading London based auction house for collector's rugs from the late 1960s to the middle of the 1980s. The focus has always been on collector's rugs from the main rug regions: Caucasus, Central Asia (with Baluchi), Persia, Anatolia (with many kilims). In later catalogues, Jean Lefevre added Islamic art, textiles and books to his auctions. Many pieces were produced before the late 19th century ('commercial era'), the level of pieces was usually high (especially in the late 1970s/early 1980s).

XIII. Carpets from the Turkish domination in Asia Minor
XIV. Oriental carpets copied in Spain and other countries in Europe
XV. The influence from Asia Minor on the textile arts of Sweden
XVI. The manufacturing of carpets in the Orient.
In contrast to Bode or Lessing the author derived many conclusions (esp. dating) from art forms in other media, so he dated many carpets considerably earlier compared to current thinking.
The 393 figures show rugs, textiles, rugs in paintings and art of other media (stonework, miniatures, paintings, pottery etc.).
Most bw-plates show only a (small) part of the rug.
Mounted color plates (fig. 58, 59, 101, 108, 177, 179, 181, 183, 188, 193, 195, 244, 285, 300, 316, 333) are very small and show fragments/small parts of the rug.
Loose text with mounted plates in a folio.

OPE: There are 10 copies printed on silk and 290 regular copies.

A collection of 60 postcards of 18th and 19th century rugs in 10 series with 6 postcards each: classical Anatolian, Central Persian, Caucasus, Kurds, Turkoman, East-Persian, Bokhara, South-Persian, China/East Turkestan, Asia Minor.

Focus is on peasant and nomad rugs. Pieces are from the rug gallery Oettingen with imprint of the successor: Onno Behrends. Many interesting pieces. Soft folder. All 60 plates are 'recycled' in the Grote-Hasenbalg publications.

OPE: There are different folders in different (grey, green ..) colors from different years and various dealers' imprints.

There seems to exist different editions of this book: One has 120 plates in two folders (29x20.5cm) with one plate per sheet, another 2 plates per sheet.

AB: Grote-Hasenbalg: PICTURE ALBUM WITH 120 CARDS OF OLDER ORIENTAL RUGS, This is an unusual item, not recorded in any of the bibliographies. One might suspect that it was a one-off for a french dealer or collector of the period ! The two stout large folders are of heavy card, are presented in half-cloth (ie fine linen spine and corners), and are rather worn and soiled. Each folder contains thirty stout sheets on which 114 cards from the ENGLISH set, together with 6 cards from the GERMAN set have been mounted in pairs, side by side, on very stout dark paper. The German cards show the missing pictures but, of course, have different numbers and are easily located as their mounts are of a lighter colour. Neither the two lists of plates, nor the folding map are present. Each folder has a title page with a label reading as follows:

"VIEUX TAPIS D'ORIENT (Master pieces of Oriental Rugs) 120 REPRODUCTIONS EN COULEUR AVEC TEXTE DESCRIPTIF". Alas, there is no text, descriptive or otherwise ! Each card has but the briefest of descriptions printed below the picture(s). Neither folder has a list of plates, and the large folding map is absent. NOTE: the publication date shown (1926) is purely a notional one.

G-1280 Robinson, Vincent J. Eastern Carpets, Twelve Early Examples.

London: Bernard Quaritch, 1882; English; 68 pp., hard, 50x37cm; 12 color; no line drawings; no map; Good; detailed desc.; NoTech [EA 505] [OB 952] [CSROT 3770] [CRES 1183].

AB: The very first English publication on Oriental carpets. The plates are in colour, and are based upon his sister Julia's water coloured drawings. These, amazingly, are still bright and fresh. The author's attributions were the best of their kind at the time but today, over a century later, many will smile at what he has written. He is, of course, best remembered as the dealer through whom the Victoria & Albert Museum acquired the world famous Ardebil carpet.

London: Journal of the Society of Arts 34/1739 (March 19, 1886); 1886; English; 14 pp. (pp. 447-460), soft, 24x16.5cm; no illustrations; no line drawings; no map; no desc.; NoTech [CRES 1184].

A general article on historical and contemporary rugs from various regions (Greece, Afghanistan, Persia, India ...) including a discussion of this article by Donaldson, Hunter and Clarke, Purdon.

G-1282 Robinson, Vincent J. Eastern Carpets, Twelve Early Examples. Second Series.

London: Bernard Quaritch, 1893; English; 50 pp.; hard, 51.5x38cm; 12 color; no line drawings; no map; Good; detailed desc.; NoTech [EA 505a] [OB 953] [CRES 1184].

Book on classical carpets (including two Italian carpets), 7 of them from Persia. Plates are water coloured drawings from Robinson, Julia, the sister of Robinson, V. J. All plates show only a (small) part of the rug, mostly a corner. Foreword by Birdwood, George. Rugs of second series are completely different compared to the first series.

G-1283 Rogers, J. M. (ed). The Topkapi Saray Museum. Carpets.

Boston: Little, Brown and Company, 1987; English; 248 pp., hard, 30.5x22.5cm; 98 color; no line drawings; no map; Fair-Good; desc.; MinTech [OB 954] [CSROT 6835].

The catalog of this famous collection comprising of 19th century Persian workshop and Caucasian rugs with few Anatolian kilims, but the core of this book are the 34 so-called Salting carpets, now attributed to 16th/17th century Persia instead of 18th/19th century Turkish/Hereke.

The basic publication on this topic: Eiland, Murray L. Jr. Pinner, Robert. Oriental Carpet and Textile Studies Volume V Part 2. The Salting Carpets, 1999, shows these rugs only in (poor) black-and-white. Slipcase.

OPE: Corresponding article by Franses, Michael and Bennett, Ian in Hali 39 (May/June 1988), pp. 20-27, 4 c., 1 bw, 2 figures, also favouring a pre-19th century Persian attribution.

Bennett, Ian: Breve panoramica sui tappeti classici (Short panoramique of classical carpets)

Mills, John: I tappeti medio-orientali nella pittura italiana (Mid-oriental carpets in Italian painting).

Franses, Michael: Catalogue with 36 classical carpets.

The exhibition was realized in collaboration with the Textile Gallery, London. Many black/white photos/drawings on similar rugs, carpets in paintings, rug designs in other media etc.

It is noted that this book (or parts of it) are extracts from the book: "Collecting Early Carpets", which should be published in GB in 1982 (what obviously never happened).

 A hard folder including a textbook and 50 loose plates. The exhibition wants to give an overview on the holdings of antique oriental carpets in private Styrian possession, stating that there are almost no museum pieces from the 16th century. So the exhibition concentrates on the most interesting and characteristic carpets dated until mid 19th century. The slipcase consists of a 34 page booklet describing the carpets and 1+50 mounted plates on black cardboard. Slipcase.
 Note: According to Enay/Azadi no more than 45 copies were produced. Albegger speaks of 30 copies only.

No. 1 in a series of catalogues on mostly 19th and 18th century peasant and nomad rugs from all Turkish regions. Pieces are drawn from the well known Istanbul museum (TIEM and Vakiflar) and lesser known local museums, but also private collections. For every piece a full page color plate, location/origin/age/format, a small map, a scaled coloured detail of the pattern (with knot density), a black/white illustration with the name of specific design elements and a short description is given. Many carpets are fragmented. Main purpose of this series is to revitalize high quality Turkish rug knotting.
OPE: There are later editions with different covers, but unchanged contents.

A dissertation on various kinds of classical Anatolian rug types known from 15th and 16th century Italian and 17th century Dutch paintings:

Contents:

- Das sogenannte kleine Holbeinmuster, p. 9
- Das sogenannte große Holbeinmuster, p. 23
- Die Arabeskranken-Teppiche, p. 51
- Die Medaillon-Uschaks, p. 74

- Die Stern-Uschaks, p. 89

- Die Gebets-Uschaks, p. 93

- Eine Gruppe anatolischer Gebetsteppiche, p. 99

- Eine namenlose Gattung, pp. 110, according to stylistic characteristics (similar to Ushaks), Scheunemann attributed this group, exclusively known from 17th century Dutch paintings with many from Jan Steen, to Anatolia.

- Die sogenannten Vogel-Teppiche, p. 124

- Die sogenannten Siebenbürger-Teppiche, p. 127

- Die Kolonnen-Ladiks, p. 138

- Die Ghiördes-Teppiche, p. 141

3 groups are only known from paintings (without extant examples): a special group of large pattern Holbein rugs (2nd half of 15th century), a type of Anatolian prayer rugs (1st half of 16th century) and the 'namenlose Gattung' (17th century).

The value of this survey lies in a better dating of classical Anatolian rugs (for example: according to this publication the Ladik rugs are dated up to 100 years earlier).

An early standard work of classical Anatolian carpets stored in protestant churches in Transylvania (Romania). Except for one Caucasian rug all rugs are of Anatolian origin (Schmutzler placed their origin around Istanbul), categorized into 10 groups according to their design. Rugs are dated to 17th and 18th century, a few Holbein rugs to the 16th century. 7 pages of introduction, 4 pages descriptions of the plates. For all rugs the current location is given. Includes a register with the location of ‘all’ 326 known rugs in the possession of the Evangelic Church in Romania. 325 numbered copies, 20 of them bound in leather. Important documentation.

OPE: Reprint in 2009 by Ionescu, Stefano, 30x21.5cm with English translation of text and a biography of Schmutzler; 35 copies.
New edition in 2010 by Hiersemann Verlag, unchanged to the original.

The author asserted a strong similarity between Turkish and Turkmen rugs as the Turk immigrants to Anatolia kept their motifs and color compositions for a very long time. Rugs (Anatolia: 14th – 17th century, West Turkestan: 18th – 20th century) are drawn from various public and private collections. Some additional plates on rugs in paintings. 13 pages of bibliography.

Ca-25 Aurora Art Publishers. Azerbaijan Carpets and Rugs.

Leningrad: Aurora Art Publishers, 1978; English/Russian; 32 pp., soft, 14x9cm; 16 color; no line drawings; no map; Fair; no desc.; NoTech [OB 1370].

A soft folder containing 16 postcards of 19th century to contemporary examples.

Pieces are from the Azerbaijan Museum of Carpets and Folk Art in Baku, some designed by Kerimov and other designers.

OPE: There are (several?) different folders with this title including postcards.

Ca-302 Aurora Art Publishers. Rugs and Carpets of Daghestan.

Leningrad: Aurora Art Publishers, 1984; English/Russian; 32 pp., soft, 14x9cm; 16 color; no line drawings; no map; Good; no desc.; NoTech.

A collection of postcards, showing 20th century Daghestan pile carpets and flatweaves (all dated from 1928-1969) and now stored in the Art Museum, Makhachkala. 13,000 copies.

Ca-26 Avagyan, Ionna (comp.). Carpets Inscribed in Armenian from the Collection of the History Museum of Armenia.

Yerevan: History Museum of Armenia, 2010; Armenian/English; 88 pp., soft; 28x23.5cm; 69 color; soft; 28x23,5 cm; no line drawings; no map; Fair-Good; desc.; TechAnal.

GH: In this catalogue 69 carpets mostly with Armenian inscriptions kept at the History Museum of Armenia are shown on color plates. Details of the carpets (mostly inscriptions) are presented in numerous small pictures. The mayor part of the carpets dates from the 19th century, with some examples from the 18th and the 20th century.

For each carpet (most of them not published previously) is given the age, the place of origin, the dimensions in cm, the inventory number of the museum, the inscription, a technical description (warp, weft, density, knot, pile height, edges, dyes, colors), and a short description of motifs and history. Short introduction by the author.

Large catalog on the Ulmke collection, Switzerland. Most of the rugs date from the end of 19th to beginning of 20th century. As condition was very important for the collector, you will find almost no exceptional (old) examples.

Valuable general texts on Caucasian rugs: History of Azerbaijan carpet and vocabulary to pattern elements (Kerimov) and specific characteristics of Caucasian rug types (Azadi). According to the different background of the three authors, the book combines an oriental, a Caucasian and a Western viewpoint on Caucasian rugs.

A survey of the private collection of mostly 19th century rural rugs and flatweaves (jajims) of this renowned collector and scholar of Caucasian carpets.

The focus of the collection lies in rural pieces, often with low knot density, mainly from the regions between North Azerbaijan and Northwest Iran (=East Azerbaijan). After a general introduction etymology, transliterations, definitions, materials, techniques and color, the pieces are categorized into two groups/regions: East Azerbaijan with some kennereh formats, 'Qarajeh'-style, Sarab, export rugs, jajims Transcaucasus, with Kazak, Qarabagh, Shirvan, Quba and Zeikhur.

Interesting and plasing selection.

Important study focusing on conditions of production of carpet weaving in the late 19th and early 20th century in the Caucasus. The text is based on "original written and photographic sources". Old documents make it apparent, that many of 'former' mid-19th century Caucasian rugs are actually woven in the late 19th or early 20th century. Most plates show flatweaves which are - in the author's eyes - the true traditional products of this area. Many additional historical photos. Standard work.

 Washington: Washington Hajji Baba, 1970; English; 66 pp., soft, 28x21.5cm; 40 black/white; line drawings; map; desc.; NoTech [EA 391] [OB 1569].
 An exhibition catalog of 40 Yomut rugs, bags, tent bands, kapunuks, asmalyks etc. from private collections. 22 pieces are from Jones himself. Pieces seem to be mostly 19th century. Rear pages are empty, so only 33 pages are printed with text and pictures. Poor level of black/white reproductions. Mimeographed, stapled.

- Ce-173 Jones, H. McCoy. Boucher, Jeff W. Weavings of the Tribes in Afghanistan. Washington: Washington Hajji Baba, 1972; English; 114 pp., soft, 28x21.5cm; 52 black/white; line drawings; 2 maps; desc.; NoTech [EA 396] [OB 1574]. The annual Christmas exhibition presents 36 Turkoman (mainly Beshir and Ersari, but also some Chodor, Tekke, Saryk, Yomut) and Baluchi (and related tribes) weavings. Many Turkoman pieces seem to be late 19th, most Baluchi pieces early 20th century. An early exhibition catalog of Baluchi weavings (rugs, bags, sofreh, pillows with some flatweaves) from the Jones (34), Boucher (9) and other private collections. Most rugs are dated from mid-19th century to mid 20th century which seems quite optimistic for some pieces. Today many rugs would be attributed to neighbouring tribes (Mushwani, Aimaq etc.) Many bw plates are quite dark and lack contrast. Springbound.
